

Parsons Unveils Industry's First Holistic Cyber Solution for Critical Infrastructure Protection

January 17, 2024

CHANTILLY, Va., Jan. 17, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Parsons Corporation (NYSE: PSN) today announced the launch of a new holistic cyber solution – Cyberzcape Tracker – that proactively protects and neutralizes cyber threats within critical infrastructure networks. The solution is the first commercial cyber offering of its kind that combines passive monitoring with active threat neutralization within the critical infrastructure protection industry.

Recently, Cyberzcape Tracker was successfully piloted by two leading utility providers in the Midwest, unlocking a comprehensive, holistic, and programmatic contextual analysis of the network's threat environment and then identifying and neutralizing malicious activity before impacting network integrity.

"In today's blended global infrastructure and national security landscape, the necessity of safeguarding critical infrastructure's cybersecurity is more crucial than ever. Protecting critical infrastructure is no longer an option; it's an imperative," said Robert Nawy, director, IPKCyber and Power Division at Parsons. "Society depends on interconnected digital systems and the potential consequences of cyberattacks on vital services and critical infrastructure – like the attacks on Ukraine's power grid and the United States' Colonial Pipeline – are serious to the health, safety, and stability of our global communities. The protection of essential sectors like energy, finance, and healthcare is not merely a technical challenge; it's a cornerstone of national resilience and security in the face of evolving and more sophisticated digital threats."

Cyberzcape Tracker will enhance the safety and security of customers across the critical infrastructure market, including local communities, utilities, and vital systems, while reducing the risk of effective cyberattacks on infrastructure suppliers. Powered by artificial intelligence and machine learning, Cyberzcape Tracker combines capabilities from the company's acquisition of IPKeys Cyber Partners with operational Parsons' cybersecurity solutions that are currently protecting networks across the global infrastructure and national security markets.
