

Parsons Awarded Task Order For Indo-Pacific Counter-Nuclear Smuggling System Deployment

September 17, 2025

CHANTILLY, Va., Sept. 17, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Parsons Corporation (NYSE: PSN) announced today that the company was awarded a $13 million task order under the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) Counter Nuclear Smuggling System Deployment (CNSSD) multiple award task order contract (MATOC). The task order to deliver end-to-end support for counter-nuclear smuggling systems to countries in the Indo-Pacific region includes a one-year base performance period and six one-year option periods and is new work for the company.

This is the fifth task order Parsons was awarded by the NNSA Office of Nuclear Smuggling Detection and Deterrence under the CNSSD MATOC, enabling them to strengthen national security by preventing trafficking of radioactive and nuclear material. Under this task order, Parsons will provide comprehensive services, including project management, engineering, system design and deployment, and logistics for counter-nuclear smuggling systems to 18 countries.

"Parsons is trusted by the federal government to deliver on large-scale programs and critical technology solutions that advance national security, both at home and abroad," said Jon Moretta, President, Engineered Systems for Parsons. "We remain committed to furthering U.S. nonproliferation and nuclear security goals by equipping international partners with capabilities to detect, disrupt, and interdict the illicit trafficking of radioactive and nuclear materials, contributing to a safer, more secure nation."

In March 2024, NNSA awarded Parsons one of two positions on the $1 billion ceiling value CNSSD MATOC, having proven experience both in the field and in developing innovative approaches to security solutions. This task order grows Parsons' work with NNSA, which also includes the Enterprise Construction Management Services contract, and expands the company's Indo-Pacific portfolio. Parsons continues to deliver complex infrastructure and national security solutions in the region, leveraging program and construction management, engineering, and planning expertise; along with advanced technology that enhances U.S. capabilities in deterring threats and maintaining regional stability.
