

Parsons Secures $28 Million U.S. Air Force Task Order Supporting AFRL's GARDEM Mission

June 3, 2026

CHANTILLY, Va., June 03, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Parsons Corporation (NYSE: PSN), a leading disruptive technology provider supporting national security missions across all domains, announced today it has been awarded a $28 million task order from the U.S. Air Force to provide comprehensive Field Site Support under the Global Application Research, Development, Engineering, and Maintenance (GARDEM) 2 program. This task order is one of the four Parsons secured in 2026 in support of the AFRL's GARDEM program, bringing Parsons' total awards to $218 million and reinforcing the company's role as a provider of mission-critical digital and data-centric capabilities for the U.S. Air Force.

Under the five-year task order, Parsons will deliver functional onsite training, demonstrations, system enhancements, modifications, integration, testing, deployments, and lifecycle maintenance in support of GARDEM 2 software baselines. These efforts will directly enable the rapid maturation, evaluation, and operational deployment of advanced technologies and concepts critical to Air Force mission execution. The company has supported the GARDEM mission since 2019.

"This award highlights the Air Force's continued confidence in Parsons' ability to take emerging technologies from concept to operational reality," said Mike Kushin, President of Defense and Intelligence for Parsons. "Our teams bring a rare combination of deep mission understanding, software engineering excellence, and field-tested execution that allows us to rapidly integrate, test, and deploy capabilities at the speed of combat where and when they are needed most."

The GARDEM 2 program plays a central role in accelerating innovation by bridging research, development, engineering, and sustainment activities across operational environments. Parsons' approach ensures solutions are not only technically sound but also aligned with real-world mission demands and warfighter requirements, improving speed to capability and operational effectiveness for America's fighting force.

This latest award builds on Parsons' strong operational history of supporting Air Force and national security customers with agile, scalable solutions spanning cyber, electronic warfare, space, and advanced software systems.
