

Parsons Integrates Secondary Payload on Latest Atlas V Launch

June 16, 2021

CENTREVILLE, Va., June 16, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Parsons Corporation (NYSE: PSN) delivered the secondary payload on the recent SBIRS GEO5 Atlas V launch as part of the existing $100 million Launch Manifest Systems Integrator (LMSI) contract. Awarded in 2019, LMSI is designed to expand access to space and maximize the orbit delivery potential of each launch. The company designs, develops, tests, and integrates multi-manifest satellite vehicles on U.S. Government space launch systems.

In preparation for the May 18 launch, Parsons successfully integrated two Technology Demonstration Orbiters (TDO-3 and TDO-4) to ride-share on the SBIRS GEO5 mission, utilizing integrated flight system housing developed by Parsons. The TDO-3 and TDO-4 smallsat payloads are sponsored by the Department of Astronautics at the United States Air Force Academy (USAF).

"We are pleased to support the United States Space Force and specifically the Space and Missile Systems Center Launch Enterprise Mission Management Office in their objectives to expand access to space," said Rich Aves, executive vice president, Space and Geospatial Solutions. "This is a significant milestone for the space community and we look forward to advancing the paradigm shift toward small satellites."

To date, Parsons' multi-manifest launch solutions have successfully supported three launch missions with an additional four missions under contract through 2023. The missions will enable the addition of numerous small satellites onto current space launches to Low Earth and Geosynchronous Orbits. These missions are designed to deliver cost-effective launch solutions for U.S. Government spacecraft while demonstrating processes and procedures that help scale the Space Force multi-manifest launch paradigm.

Forward-Looking Statements

This document contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Forward-looking statements are based on our current expectations, beliefs and assumptions, and are not guarantees of future performance. Forward-looking statements are inherently subject to uncertainties, risks, changes in circumstances, trends and factors that are difficult to predict, many of which are outside of our control. Accordingly, actual performance, results and events may vary materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements, and you should not rely on the forward-looking statements as predictions of future performance, results or events. Numerous factors could cause actual future performance, results and events to differ materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements, including, among others: any issue that compromises our relationships with the U.S. federal government or its agencies or other state, local or foreign governments or agencies; any issues that damage our professional reputation; changes in governmental priorities that shift expenditures away from agencies or programs that we support; our dependence on long-term government contracts, which are subject to the government's budgetary approval process; the size of our addressable markets and the amount of government spending on private contractors; failure by us or our employees to obtain and maintain necessary security clearances or certifications; failure to comply with numerous laws and regulations; changes in government procurement, contract or other practices or the adoption by governments of new laws, rules, regulations and programs in a manner adverse to us; the termination or nonrenewal of our government contracts, particularly our contracts with the U.S. federal government; our ability to compete effectively in the competitive bidding process and delays, contract terminations or cancellations caused by competitors' protests of major contract awards received by us; our ability to generate revenue under certain of our contracts; any inability to attract, train or retain employees with the requisite skills, experience and security clearances; the loss of members of senior management or failure to develop new leaders; misconduct or other improper activities from our employees or subcontractors; our ability to realize the full value of our backlog and the timing of our receipt of revenue under contracts included in backlog; changes in the mix of our contracts and our ability to accurately estimate or otherwise recover expenses, time and resources for our contracts; changes in estimates used in recognizing revenue; internal system or service failures and security breaches; and inherent uncertainties and potential adverse developments in legal proceedings, including litigation, audits, reviews and investigations, which may result in materially adverse judgments, settlements or other unfavorable outcomes. These factors are not exhaustive and additional factors could adversely affect our business and financial performance. For a discussion of additional factors that could materially adversely affect our business and financial performance, see the factors included under the caption "Risk Factors" in our Registration Statement on Form S-1 and our other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. All forward-looking statements are based on currently available information and speak only as of the date on which they are made. We assume no obligation to update any forward-looking statement made in this presentation that becomes untrue because of subsequent events, new information or otherwise, except to the extent we are required to do so in connection with our ongoing requirements under federal securities laws.
